Homily: Pentecost, 50 days after Easter, the time for harvesting. We are reminded that the harvest is ripe and the laborers are few. In the first reading we hear 11 apostles speaking to 14 different language groups and everyone hearing in their own language. St. Luke is showing us the reversal of the tower of Babel when pagans thought they could build a tower and storm heaven. God confused their communication. Now God is bringing all peoples together showing that it is He who has chosen us; it is He who has come into our world. At Baptism each and every one of us received the Holy Spirit and as we grow we discern more and more clearly what gifts God has given us. All these gifts are for the good of the world. Can you imagine what it would be like if Christians, who make up a fifth of the world population, really followed the footsteps of Jesus?
